PhD-application guideline: Endorsement by supervisor for “own project”

Project title and name of supervisor

List the project title and the name of the supervisor at the Department of Micro- and Nanotechnology that endorses the project.

Assessment of the student

The supervisor presents a short assessment of the student in relation to the proposed the project. How does the supervisor know the student?

The project related to the overall strategy of the department

The supervisor presents a short description of how the project is related to the strategy of his/her own research group and to the strategy of the department.

Secured co-financing

If any, the supervisor describes the co-financing secured for the project, including the name of the funding source and the amount. Co-financing greatly enhances the chances of obtaining the scholarship applied for.

Possible co-financing

If any, the supervisor describes possible co-financing such as submitted or planned funding applications.

Percentage of DTU Nanotech funding applied for

The degree of co-financing should be indicated by listing the percentage of a full PhD-scholarship that the applicant is applying for, e.g. 30% Nanotech.
